
Church Furniture of Distinction

The Marshall Company

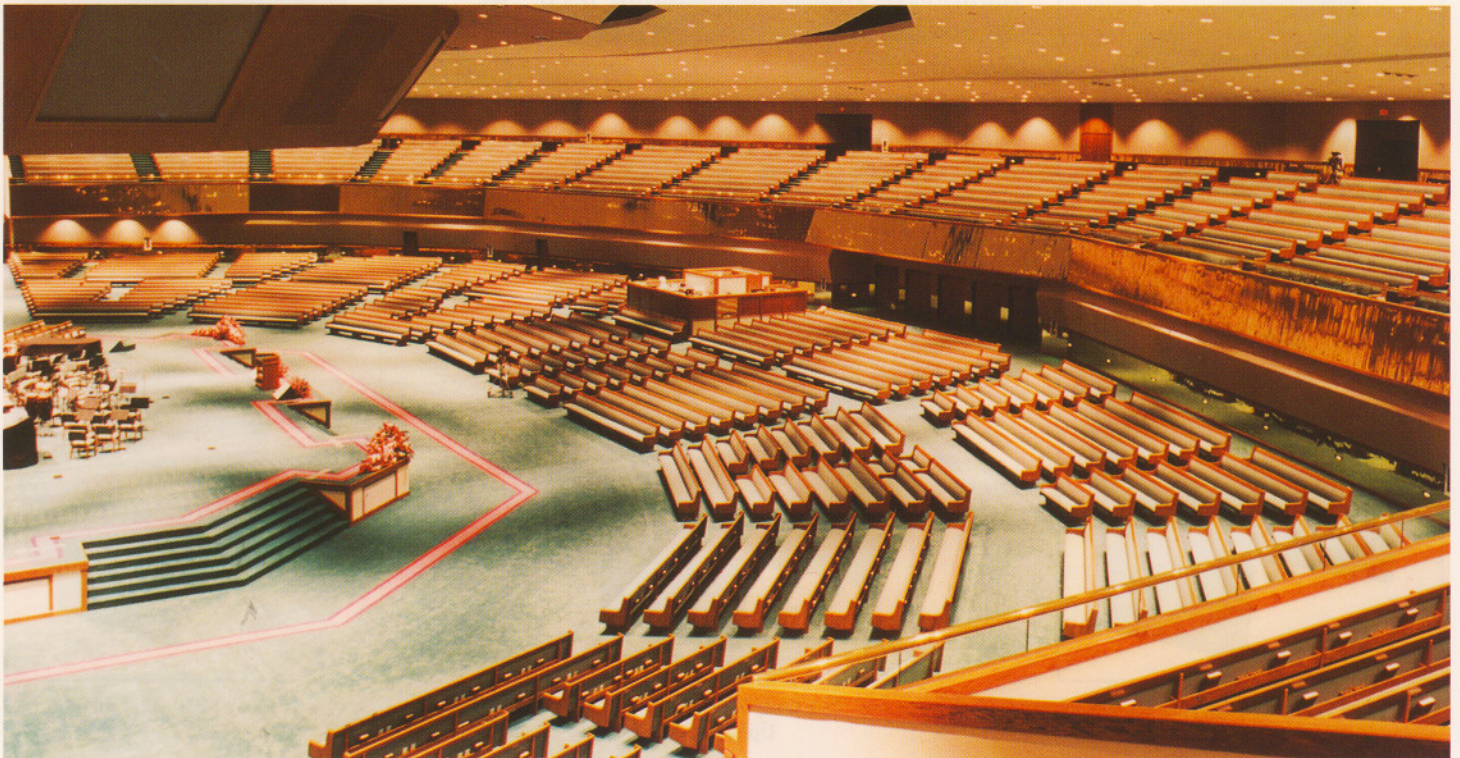

You are about to discover the leading designer and manufacturer of church furniture in the United States: The Marshall Company. A longtime leader in the church furniture business, we pride ourselves on being one of the few companies in the United States to still manufacture only quality solid wood pews. That means no veneers, no chipboard cores, no plastic laminates, just the classic beauty and durability of solid Northern Red Oak. However, materials aren't everything; our highly skilled craftsmen are dedicated to designing furniture that is beautiful and functional, as well as being affordable.

Even with a limited budget, The Marshall Company representatives can help you furnish your building with high quality, elegant furniture. More than just "order takers," they are experienced in listening to your needs and helping you to coordinate your furniture into a unique worship space.

We plan our whole manufacturing process, right down to the completed installation, with your long-term satisfaction in mind... No effort is spared in crafting these fine furnishings – furnishings that will stay beautiful and last the lifetime of your building.

SOLID OAK

“Guaranteed not to warp, split or check”

As these photographs illustrate, The Marshall Company is experienced with many styles of pew ends. We can even custom design a pew end especially for you. Whatever style you specify, you are assured of the highest quality material and craftsmanship.

For over 70 years The Marshall Company has set forth design standards which other manufacturers only hope to match. In 1946, we introduced the acoustical spring pew, which today is still the most comfortable, long lasting pew on the market.

Sound, basic philosophies of high quality, service and good value maintained consistently for nearly three quarter of a century have rewarded our many customers with the finest church furniture. It has gained us the reputation of being the leading manufacturer of church furniture.

Marshall furniture is manufactured using materials and methods so that it will be beautiful, serviceable and comfortable for many years – often for as long as the duration of your church building itself. We do not consider our furniture a consumer item, but a permanent capital investment of great importance to you. This is only a sample of Marshall’s full line of standard pew bodies and pew ends. A complete line is available in our catalog.

Craftsmanship “Attention to detail in every piece”

If you want to create furniture of lasting beauty, you must work a little longer and a little harder at it.

At The Marshall Company, there are only “high” quality furnishings. Some pieces may be more or less expensive due to design considerations, yet every piece we manufacture is made with the same care and commitment to quality craftsmanship.

We don’t have to be so thorough, but it’s worth it... Your solid oak is guaranteed not to warp, split or check. Your furniture will contribute to the grace of your church for many, many years.

When you take pride in your work, it shows!

A Tradition of Excellence

From generation to generation, The Marshall Company's tradition of excellence continues. The art of selecting and preparing the finest materials, coupled with the skill of creating furniture in our own factory, has been maintained with pride. Our team of skilled craftsmen complete the process, installing beauty that is functional and durable.

We do not take shortcuts. Much research has gone into perfecting the process of selecting the best trees, sawing them at just the proper time, and storing them in our humidity-controlled warehouse. The entire process, from pre-cutting to manufacturing, spans over an entire year.

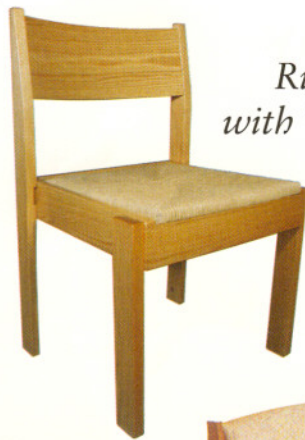

Our methods for sanding and finishing the wood are no less impressive. We painstakingly test the finish against heat, cold, humidity, sun, water, and wet cloth. We don't have to be so thorough, but it's part of the standard we set here at The Marshall Company.

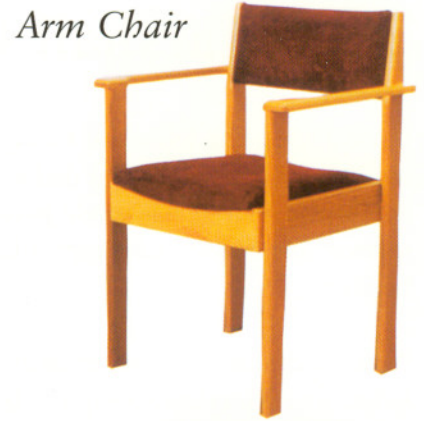

Marshallok Chairs

Superior Features

For maximum flexibility and practicality, the unique design of Marshallok Chairs cannot be matched. You can put their strength and beauty to work in place of pews, for choir seating, or as additional seating wherever needed. And, as with all Marshall products, only the finest oak is shaped into the uniquely-contoured frames of these chairs. Sturdy spline nail and brace construction, plus quality upholstery, add extra comfort and durability.
